RELIED UPON A TIME WORN PROCEDURE

CAUCUS REJECTS SENATOR BACON

Democrats Name Clarke For President Pro Tem. of Senate.

GEORGIAN'S FRIENDS AMAZED

Opponents Justify Action by Contending That as Bacon Insists On Right to Chairmanship of Foreign Relations Committee by Seniority, He Should Not Be Handed Another Important Post.

SENATOR A. O. BACON

Defeated For President Pro Tem. by Clarke of Arkansas.

Washington, March 8.—Senator Bacon of Georgia, who has been the Democratic president pro tem. of the senate, alternating with Senator Gallinger, Republican, and who was nominated for that office by unanimous vote of his party in the senate, was defeated in the Democratic caucus for renomination by Senator James P. Clarke of Arkansas. The vote was 27 to 14 against Bacon.

Senator Bacon's defeat was a distinct shock not only to his Democratic friends, but to the senate as a body. The senator himself was plainly humiliated by what had happened, because he had every reason to believe, his friends say, that he would be renominated unanimously when he went into the caucus.

The reverse sustained by Senator Bacon and his friends was rendered all the more poignant by the fact that the successful campaign which had been secretly waged against him was made mainly on the issue that Senator Bacon had insisted on his right to be chairman of the foreign relations committee by seniority, and it was argued that he should not claim two such important posts at the hands of the senate organization.

This argument was particularly effective with the new crop of senators, who are seeking important places on committees and who have been chafing under the rule of seniority. Senator Clarke, whose election is now assured, is classed as an ultra-conservative.

The friends of Senator Bacon attributed the turnover in the caucus to a deal between some of the progressives and Senators Clarke and Simmons of North Carolina. They charge that these progressives, in their desire to beat Senator Martin of Virginia for caucus chairman, enlisted the support of Senators Clarke and Simmons by holding out a promise that the former would be elected president pro tem. and the latter given the chairmanship of the committee on finance. This contention is emphatically denied by some of those who voted for Senator Clarke.

Mr. Bacon is the oldest Democrat in the senate in point of service. He was elected in 1894, and on March 3 entered upon the service of his fourth consecutive term.

Confidence In the German

Confidence in Friedmann.

New York, March 8.—The board of directors of the People's hospital met and by their vote expressed their full confidence in Dr. Frederick F. Friedmann, the Berlin doctor, who performed in that hospital his first demonstration of his supposed cure for tuberculosis. The directors asked Dr. Friedmann to accept the freedom of the hospital and treat there as many patients as he cares to. He has agreed, and will return to the hospital to continue his treatment of tuberculosis sufferers.

WILMINGTON MAN IS CHOSEN ON NEW BOARD BY GOVERNOR BOARD SELECTED FOR SCHOOL SURVEY

Governor Cox Names the Members of the Commission.

Columbus, O., March 8.—Representative Oliver J. Thatcher of Wilmington, formerly a professor in the University of Chicago; William L. Alendord of Sandusky and Miss Edith Campbell of Cincinnati, were appointed by Governor Cox members of the commission to conduct a school survey, as authorized by the assembly. Bettermen of the public school system of the state is one of the demands of Governor Cox.

The commission will make a study not only of the grade and high schools, but normal and agricultural schools as well. It also will devote time to the study of state administration of schools, to determine with what efficiency they are being conducted and to make recommendations.

None of the members will receive any compensation for labor. However, they will be allowed $10,000 to pay traveling expenses and hire clerks and experts in aiding them.

The municipal research bureau of New York will furnish experts free to the Ohio commission to make investigations. The commission is empowered to search any state records and summon witnesses.

None of Governor Cox's appointees is now actively engaged in school work, though all have at one time or other been directly interested.

Yokohama Ravaged by Fire.

Yokohama Japan, March 8.—Fire here caused damage of $7,500,000 in the business quarter of the city. The exchange, a number of silk factories and warehouses and 250 business buildings were destroyed.

PHOTOGRAPHING THE HUMAN VOICE

The photograph shows Antoine Pollak, the foreign inventor, giving his first demonstration of his new invention of photographing the human voice, and Miss Maggie Teyte, the opera singer, who took part in the experiment, which was held in New York. The receiver of the Pollak-Virag apparatus consists of a so-called optical telephone, i. e., a telephone membrane connected with a small mirror, which reflects a ray of light that is photographed on sensitive paper. The human voice will produce an oscillation in the membrane of the optical telephone, and the mirror will give a true record of this oscillation. This record is a photograph of the human voice.

New Man Has Bee Buzzing In Bonnet Right Now

FIELDER A CANDIDATE

Would Succeed Himself as Governor of New Jersey.

Trenton, N. J., March 8.—James F. Fielder, who as president of the senate succeeded President Wilson as governor of New Jersey, announced himself a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor. Governor Fielder is the third active aspirant in the field, his opponents being Mayor H. Otto Wittmann of Jersey City and Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., of Trenton. The acting governor said that as soon as the adjournment of the legislature makes it possible he will begin a campaign for the nomination.

Fulton Discusses Gerrymander.

Columbus, O., March 8.—Chairman William D. Fulton of the committee on federal relations of the house of representatives, who has just returned from Washington, confirmed the report that there will be a congressional redistricting bill introduced next week.

NOW THE DRYS ARE IN A HUFF ROW STILL ON

NOW, WHAT MEANING CAN BE ATTACHED TO THIS?

MURPHY SEES WILSON

Tammany Chief's Call at White House the Cause of Speculation.

Washington, March 8.—Charles F. Murphy and several other Tammany braves were received by President Wilson at the White House. Mr. Murphy and his party were weeded from the waiting line of visitors in the east room and greeted by the president in the smaller and more exclusive green room.

Democratic politicians in Washington say it is very plain what Mr. Murphy's purpose was in seeking the White House. Mr. Murphy, they say, desires to dispel the impression that has gone abroad in New York state that he is on the outside of the political fence surrounding the Wilson administration. While his call at the White House itself had no political significance, it will immediately be accepted as evidence by the Tammanys and members of the state Democracy that Mr. Murphy really is on agreeable terms with the Wilson administration.

Big Fire

Hot Springs, Ark., March 8.—Seven persons were injured and six business establishments, four doctors' offices and a sanitarium were destroyed by fire that started in the business district. The fire caused a loss estimated at $500,000. The fire was caused by a natural gas explosion in Battar Brothers' store. The force of the explosion tore out the front part of the store, rendering some of those inside unconscious.

SIGNAL VICTORY CLAIMED BY WETS

Liquor License Measure Pushed Through the Senate.

VOTE, TWENTY- EIGHT TO FOUR

Hudson's Proposition to Cut Salaries of State Licensing Commissioners the Only Amendment of Importance Accepted by the Upper Branch. House Knocks Out a Number of Proposals Adopted by the Senate.

Columbus, O., March 8.—Rallying their forces, which became divided during the first day's fight on the Greenlund liquor license bill, wet leaders were able not only to gain the ground lost, but to effectively withstand every assault which struck at any vital point of the measure. By a vote of 28 to 4 it was passed and sent to the house in practically the same form as it entered the senate.

Exuberance of Anti-Saloon league workers and dry members of the senate over their victory Thursday in securing the adoption of the Weygant amendment to prohibit the brewer from conducting a wagon retail trade in residence sections, turned to dejection. By a vote of 18 to 15 the amendment was reconsidered and lost. Furthermore to secure senatorial ratification of any of their policies was deemed useless by the dries, and no new amendments having Anti-Saloon league sanction were offered. They will be proposed in the house, however.

The only amendment of importance which the senate accepted was one proposed by Senator Hudson of Scioto county, cutting the salary of the state licensing board from $6,000 a year to $5,000. The vote was 20 to 13. Another of the Scioto county solon's proposals to receive sanction was that making the expenses of the state licensing board subject to the approval of the governor.

If the license bill becomes a law 3,527 saloons will be put out of business in the state, causing a total loss of revenue of $3,527,000. Of this amount the loss to the counties will

FRIGHTFUL TOLL OF EXPLOSION

SCORES HURT, MANY FATALLY

Three Hundred Tons of Dynamite in the Hold of a British Vessel Let Go With Terrific Force Near Baltimore. Response to Call For Help Ends in Tragedy of Ghastly Proportions. Captain of Tug a Hero.

Baltimore, Md., March 8.—Fifty-four known dead and probably more bodies buried in the icy waters and scores of injured, over many of whom death hovers, represent the human toll of the explosion of 300 tons of dynamite in the hold of the British steamship Alum Chine, off Fort Howard. The money loss probably will total $600,000.

By a curious irony of fate it was the instinct of mercy and brave men's gallant responses to the appeal of two of their fellows in imminent and deadly danger that swelled the death list and the list of terribly injured to their ghastly proportions.

Curling smoke from the bow of the Alum Chine warned the members of her crew, the stevedores engaged in loading her and the crew of the tug Atlantic, lying alongside, that death was in the air. In the hold of the steamship and aboard a barge roped to her side were more than 300 tons of dynamite. Every man who saw the thin spirals of smoke knew in an instant the coal bunkers of the Alum Chine were on fire and that within a few minutes the flames would reach the dynamite.

There was a rush to the ship's side. Fourteen members of the crew and four of the stevedores tumbled aboard the little launch Jerome, that just before had carried out two or three new firemen. Most of the other seamen and the stevedores leaped for the decks of the Atlantic. Hurriedly hawsers were severed and tug and launch sped away from the doomed ship. The Atlantic was about 100 feet away, but before reaching a place of safety two figures were seen clambering from the hold of the Alum Chine.

Two Men Left Behind.

They were two sailors who had been left behind. They reached the sides of the vessel and, hanging to the ropes, sent up piteous appeals for help. Despite the danger that menaced him and his vessel and the knowledge that within a few minutes a hall of death would be falling all around, Captain William E. Vandyke of the Atlantic heeded the orders that turned the tug's nose again toward the doomed steamship, speeded to the rescue and took the two seamen aboard.

Then again the Atlantic sought safety, but sought it too late. With a roar the dynamite exploded. For a moment a dense pall of smoke covered the waters. When it cleared away ship and barge had disappeared, and the Atlantic, a dismantled hulk, hapless on the surface of the bay, had become a human shambles. Death in dreadful form had descended from the sky. The Alum Chine had been torn into shreds, and boxes of dynamite mingled with the flying fragments of steel and timber filled the air. These fell on the packed decks of the Atlantic, the dynamite exploding as it fell, and sweeping those on board as a charge of shrapnel levels charging troops.

Men's heads and limbs were torn from their bodies. There were groans

Congressman J. D. Post Receiving Congratulations On Securing Public Building

All Necessary Legislation Has Been Enacted and the Appropriation Bill Has Been Signed.

THE FEDERAL BUILDING IN "DUE TIME" ASSURED

How and When the First Steps
Will Be Taken Nobody Here
Knows, But They Are Sure to Be Taken.

Congressman Post since his return from the National Capital on Thursday of this week has been kept busy receiving the congratulations of many citizens on the enactment of the final legislation which insures a Federal building to this city.

Congressman Post authorized THE HERALD, in an interview this morning to state emphatically that the step had been taken by Congress in passing the appropriation bill which included an appropriation of $80,000 for a government building here and that the bill has been signed and is now a law.

There is no longer any doubt about the matter and no further steps to be taken.

The erection of a splendid building in this city is assured.

The only possible delay now will be in the unwinding of a certain necessary amount of red tape in the purchase of ground and adoption of plans.

Just when the government agents will come here to select the site no one now knows and no one except themselves and their superior officers in the same department will be likely to know when they do come. The government officials do not go site seeking with a brass band. They may come soon and then again it may not be so soon, all depending upon when they deem the conditions to be right.

The main thing, however, in which the public is interested is that they will come and Washington's new Federal building will be built in good time, reckoned by the methods the officials transact such business.

Former Resident Buried Here

Mr. W. W. Millikan received a telephone message from Chicago Friday night telling of the death of Mrs. Ella Coons, widow of the late N. B. Coons, at her home 3713 Lake avenue Chicago.

Mrs. Coons was a sister of the late Mrs. Chas. Goetz and one of the older residents of this city. She has warm friends among the older generation, who will learn of her death with regret.

The remains are expected to arrive from Chicago Sunday morning on the 10:36 and will be taken at once to the Washington cemetery where under special permission granted on account of unusual features, interment will be made. Mrs. Coon's only son, Mr. Charlie Coons, brings all that is mortal of his mother back to her home town.

Dazzling Display Of Silver Trophies

The Horse Show silver trophies arrived from Cincinnati Saturday morning and are now on display in the Dale Furniture store windows.

Hundreds have already viewed them and they have aroused great enthusiasm.

The display is a fine one of 36 silver cups, all gold lined, and two silver plates to be offered in the Shetland pony contests.

The grace and beauty of the cups impresses the onlookers as much as their value. There is a pleasing variety in style and a number of new designs that are shown for the first time at any show.

The "Governor's Cup" is certainly a royal trophy, urn-shaped and wonderfully graceful in outline. Others, while not quite as large are all beautiful.

The selection throughout shows exquisite taste and offers trophies that are well worth the strenuous competition which they will surely arouse.

Undue Roughness To Win the Game

The basketball game at Wilmington Friday night between the Washington High School team and the Wilmington High School team, the result was 27 to 15 in favor of the Wilmington team, but for clean playing the Washington team was right-up-to-the-minute, while Wilmington still used the back-woods method of rough and tumble playing of the worst type, with the result that Zimmerman's nose was broken and an operation will be necessary, while Stevens had a hand broken after his opponent had deliberately fouled him the third or fourth time.

Blame was placed on the Wilmington referee, who permitted the undue roughness which ended so disastrously for the Washington boys, and according to members of the team the refereeing of the Wilmington man was decidedly unfair and ungentlemanly upon his part.

When McClung became referee he put two of the rough Wilmingtonians out of the game and kept them out regardless of the hostility displayed. Every man on the Washington team was bruised and scratched in a very painful manner, a thing which could not have occurred if fairness had been observed in the game.

Farm Residence Destroyed Today

About daybreak Saturday morning a large tenant house on the A. G. Blessing farm a few miles north of Jeffersonville was reduced to ashes when fire caught from a broken flue and quickly spread until within a few minutes the building was a mass of flames.

William Dickey and family, who occupied the house, escaped in safety, but a large part of the household goods went up in smoke with the building. Neighbors offered assistance to the stricken family and gave them shelter from the cold.

The house stood some distance from the main road, and was formerly occupied by Mr. Abe Blessing and family. It is the second house to be destroyed on the site during the past few years.

No insurance was carried on the household goods, but the house itself was insured for a part of its value.

Following is the result of the election: Exalted Ruler, Glenn B. Rodgers; Leading Knight, A. J. Burgett; Royal Knight, Wm. P. Smith; Lecturing Knight, Fred Schmid; Secretary, C. A. Gossard; Treasurer, J. H. Culhan; Trustee M. J. Hagerty and Delegate to Grand Lodge, C. V. Lanum.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

JUDGE BLAIR'S CONFESSION.

The confession to vote buying made by Judge A. Z. Blair indicates that this evil is more wide-spread than was at first supposed. Investigation of the records of successful politicians in many localities might disclose the same condition of affairs and it is incumbent upon the voters of every municipality to keep a closer watch upon their political leaders.

Judge Blair, during his term upon the bench, disfranchised 1,699 voters in Adams county for selling their votes at a general election. A cry of condemnation was raised against the voters of the little southern county and their case was cited as one of the unusual occurrences in American politics. Now Judge Blair openly admits buying votes during his candidacy for the bench while campaigning in other counties of his district.

The same excuse is given by the judge that is given by all politicians. The custom of the party leaders makes it necessary for the man who expects to win to play politics. Where the opponents are doing unlawful things, the tendency of the average practical politician is to follow his lead and beat his adversary at his own game. This tendency to play practical politics has made elections corrupt and has produced the condition of affairs to which Judge Blair has confessed.

What happened in Adams county and in the other southern counties of the state may happen in any political subdivision of the United States. If the voters and respectable citizens tolerate corruption and vote buying in one county, they may permit it to pass unquestioned in another. Corruption spreads rapidly and if some preventative steps are not taken it will soon taint the whole body politic.

The confession of Judge Blair emphasizes the need for stricter election laws which render conviction of corrupt politicians easier and which will carry a sting in the shape of long penitentiary sentences. Corruption in politics means higher taxes, poorer service and dishonest citizens. It is necessary to stamp out corruption in public life if the people are to prosper in their private occupations and the admissions of the former judge should lend an impetus to the movement for cleaner elections and more stringent election laws.—Springfield Sun.

Will Open New Billiard Parlor

On April 1st Frank E. Michaels will open a handsome billiard parlor, thoroughly equipped in true city style and surpassed by none in the city.

The new billiard parlor will occupy that portion of the Cherry Hotel block now used as a writing room and store room, 19½ by 76 feet in length, and five elegant billiard tables will be installed, together with easy chairs, davenport and other equipment looking to the comfort of the public.

In connection with the billiard parlor, a large cigar stand will be a feature of the place. The place will be connected with the lobby of the hotel, and will be a decidedly exclusive set of billiard parlors.

Application For Divorce Refused

After hearing the evidence in the case of Tillie Thompson against Myers Thompson in which the plaintiff brought suit for divorce, Judge Carpenter refused to grant a divorce on the grounds that the plaintiff had not proven the allegations contained in the petition.

The final evidence was heard Saturday morning, after which the entire proceedings were dismissed, the court holding that both sides had failed to prove accusations made, and ordering the defendant to pay all costs including a $25 attorney fee of the plaintiff.

Considerable sensational testimony was introduced on both sides of the case. The parties are from the Madison Mills neighborhood.

THE SILENT PLEADER

"Are you alone, mother?"
"Yes, my boy, come in," and Mrs. Raymond beamed with pride as her stalwart boy entered her sitting room. He went straight to her and sat on the ottoman at her feet, as he had often done when he had come to her with childhood petty troubles. The mother drew his head down on her lap, smoothing his hair with a gentle hand.

"What is troubling you, Richard? Can I help you?"

"I don't know, mother. I hardly know how to begin to tell you." He paused a moment then went on: "There is a girl, mother, a little brown-eyed, brown-haired, soft-voiced girl, and I love her."

"Yes, Richard?"
"She is of good family, but, oh! so poor! She thinks I am but a poverty stricken mechanic, and loves me because of it. I am going to marry her."

"You had best tell your father."

"I have and he informed me I was crazy. He had arranged a marriage for me with Miss Lincoln, so that our joint fortunes would enable me to further my railroad interests. I told him he might be general manager of the concern he owned and which employed me, but he was not director of my heart. That I would marry Anna and if he disowned me, I had skill enough as a mechanic to support her."

"Richard?"
"Mother, I love her! and so will you when you see her. I do not want to antagonize father, but I will not give in to his will."

"I will try to win him over, for I know you would select none but a worthy girl to be your wife."

"Thank you. I know you will not regret it." He kissed her tenderly, and as he walked out of the room his mother watched, with tear dimmed eyes, till he was out of sight, then turned to the task set before her.

Her husband sat in his study, the papers scattered on his desk unheeded, his brown drawn into a frown as he gazed into space. The soft rustle of his wife's gown broke his meditation.

"That young fool," he began, testily, "spilling his chances because a baby face has infatuated him. Ignoring my wishes and actually ruining his entire life."

"Come, William, I have ordered the carriage and we can talk it over as we drive."

He followed her passively enough to the waiting carriage. He was surprised to find it the simplest in his stable.

"I wished to drive myself," explained his wife.

So engrossed was he in dilating upon the enormity of his son's foolishness, that he did not notice where his wife was driving to, until they turned into a pretty country lane.

"This road seems familiar," he remarked, then sat up straight as his wife stopped in front of a tiny house set back from the street. "Why, this is the house we lived in when we were first married."

He followed her down the lilac bordered walk and into the house.

"Madge, it looks just as it did the day we left it. What does it mean? How is it you have the keys?"

"Do you remember that first check you gave me?"

"Yes, to buy jewels with."

"William, this was the jewel I bought." With a sudden change of humor she laughed merrily. "William, let us stay here for tea, and I will cook it myself. You go down and carry up some wood. Here, hang your coat on its old hook. It will seem like old times to see you in your shirt sleeves."

"Madge," he called to her, eagerly, "my old work table is still down there. Do you remember how pleased we were were the day I finished it?"

"Yes, indeed I do, Billy," using unconsciously the name the dignified William had long ago replaced.

When she placed the dainty, simple meal on the table Mr. Raymond drew up his chair with a sigh of satisfaction.

"I can't remember a meal I have enjoyed as much as this in a great many years; not since we left the little house. We were happy those days, Madge. More happy than we have been since. You look just as you did then, except your hair is gray. I well remember how proud I was of my pretty bride and the tiny home my $2 a day was supporting. Here, Madge, dear, let me dry those dishes."

Towel in hand, he painstakingly dried each dish, and as he set the last cup in the closet slipped his arms about his wife and stole a kiss, just as he had done in the first happy days of their married life.

He held her close, realizing for the first time in many years, how dear she was to him.

"Billy dear, let our boy taste of the joys we shared in that almost forgotten past. He loves a girl, who must be worthy of that love, just as you loved me. You would brook no interference, and you must not blame him for not wishing to obey your demand. Let our love and happiness in the days we were poor plead for him now." Her voice was trembling with eagerness, her eyes reflecting the great love she bore these two men.

"Come, Madge, let us go home and wish our boy goodnight."

As she locked the door she was tempted to drop a little house of courtesy and whisper, "thank you."—EMMA H. SCHLICHTING.

LOCAL MAN INVENTS DEVICE TO CHEAPEN AUTOMOBILE TRAVEL

Patentable Contrivance Conceived By Mr. O. J. Mobley Will Permit Burning of Gasoline and Kerosene Mixture in Automobiles--Can Also Use the New Automobile Fuel, "Motor Spirits."

Mr. O. J. Mobley, of the Washington Handle Factory, has invented a device for attaching to automobiles so that gasoline, or gasoline and kerosene mixed, or plain kerosene may be burned in automobiles for motive power, and the device has been tried out and works to perfection.

Mr. Mobley's invention is along a new line from any patents ever issued, and he has taken the matter up with the United States Patent office with a view to protecting the invention with patents. Automobile owners and makers who have learned of the invention and its character pronounce it a good one.

At present it is impossible for the auto owner to start his machine on coal oil or kerosene, but through the invention of Mr. Mobley it is possible to start the machine on gasoline, change it to a mixture of gasoline and kerosene, and then burn kerosene altogether, thus cutting down the expenses of operating the machine, and securing more power for less money.

Kerosene has considerably more power to the gallon than gasoline, indications are that some such invention as that made by Mr. Mobley will revolutionize the running of automobiles by changing the fuel from gasoline to kerosene, and thus materially reduce the cost of fuel.

Mr. Mobley's invention will also permit the use of "Motor Spirits" the new fuel recently placed upon the market by the Standard Oil company which is coming into common use.

It is claimed that the "motor spirits" will sell at 3c less on the gallon than gasoline, and that it has 25 per cent. more power and one quarter of a mile more mileage than gasoline.

The new fuel is yellow in color and has a pungent odor. It is an additional by-product of petroleum, and has been under test by the Standard Oil company for some time.

It has proven superior to gasoline in the matter of efficiency. Its use requires a slight adjustment of the carburetor, as it requires more air for combustion than gasoline.

So far the "motor spirits" has been used for trucks, but it is now coming into general use and the approaching summer will witness its introduction here, and it and kerosene will, to a great extent, displace gasoline.

By using kerosene and "motor spirits" it is expected that the high price of gasoline will be reduced so that there will be little difference in the cost of the three fluids.

Chillicothe Is After Y. M. C. A.

A movement is on foot in Chillicothe to establish a Young Men's Christian Association there, and those back of the movement have written to local parties after information relating to the manner in which Washington succeeded in raising the money and securing the splendid association buildings here.

The Chillicothean writing states that within a short time the movement will be launched in that city, which has a population of more than twice that of this city. Indications are that if such a building is erected in Chillicothe it will cost in excess of $50,000, and may reach as high as $75,000, as the city possesses a great deal of wealth.

Large Crowds Many Converts

Seventeen persons, including several business men responded to the call for converts at the union services in New Holland Friday night, bringing the total number of converts up to 102 during this week.

Another large audience filled the town hall and Rev. Aldrich delivered a strong sermon, after which the invitation was given and 17 responded. Most of those who went forward Friday night were young men and women, although one or two married women were included in the number.

Rev. A. L. Vandegriff will preach tonight and another large number of converts is expected.

Fisher Turned Trick in Ross

Henry G. Fisher, the celebrated buncoist who is wanted in Kalamazoo, and whose photograph and description was recently sent to County Recorder Tolen E. Brown, is the same man who, a few years ago, turned a deal in Ross county where he appeared under the name of Phillip H. Garlick.

In Ross county the man used the real estate scheme and flim-flammed one man out of a cool $3,000, after which he disappeared and the next heard from him was in one of the western states where he had succeeded in working the same scheme.

Returns Home From Hospital

After spending some 15 days in the Fayette hospital, part of the time hovering between life and death, Nina Brandon, who was shot through the stomach by Blaine Hurley on the night of February 20, left the hospital and was taken to her home Friday night, and it is believed that all danger is now past.

Owing to the nature of the wounds some of the physicians at first believed there was no hope for the woman, but her wonderful vitality helped her to pass over the critical stage and was soon on the highway to speedy recovery.

Recent Operations In Fayette Hospital

The Fayette hospital is now full, two patients having been operated on within the past few days, and one discharged.

Mrs. Harley Clay and Mrs. Ed Evans have been the last patients to undergo operations and are doing well.

Heavy Machinery Installed Today

The machinery from the Jamestown plant of the "Horse Journal," arrived Saturday afternoon and was installed in the Advertiser plant, now the home of the Horse Journal.

The heavy machinery included a linotype machine and large press and was quite difficult to move.

BURNING $2,000,000,000 IN BONDS.

Redeemed Securities Fed to the Flames in Washington.

Washington, D. C.—More than $2,000,000,000 in redeemed bonds, representing the major part of the Government's civil war debt, was fed gradually to the furnaces in the Bureau of Printing and Engraving. The engineers estimate the immense sum in old securities will generate about as much steam as two tons of good coal.

All the Government securities issued and redeemed between 1860 and 1898 are being thus destroyed, including nearly $1,000,000,000 in the famous 7-30 bonds, which were made in the size of greenbacks and passed as money at the highest rate of interest the Government ever paid.

Offered Land for His Throne.

Lisbon, Portugal.—A sensation was caused by the announcement of the discovery at the Necessidades Palace of a small coffer containing secret correspondence between the since deposed royal family of Portugal and the British and German governments. King Manuel and his relatives foreseeing the revolution asked for foreign intervention, offering in compensation Portuguese territory in Africa. Great Britain and Germany refused to interfere.

The Advancing Rates of Insurance

It has not been a great while, when checked off on history's big calendar, that the contracts of insuring against loss either by fire or against death were regarded by the people as gambling contracts. Therefore the legality of all such contracts was openly challenged.

It was only after repeated decisions in inferior courts and long drawn out litigation that the courts of last resort finally placed their seal of approval on insurance contracts.

Until that time contracts of insurance were the exception in business. Since then their increase in popularity has been almost phenomenal.

In these times scarcely no prudent business man or householder regards going without insurance, especially against loss by fire as anything short of tempting disaster.

Insurance has long since passed above the high class of judicious investments and entered the highest of all classes—an absolutely necessary expenditure in legitimate business.

After having passed through the fire of long litigation in which the very right to exist at all was questioned, out into the broad highway of legitimate business to the important station they now occupy, the managements of the big fire insurance companies are once more drawn into the unpleasant position of having the legality of their business questioned.

Several publications of note are now printing very ugly charges against the business of insurance—fire especially—and it is not unlikely that having become well grounded, as a necessity in business, the workings of insurance companies in writing insurance contracts, may be once again subjected to the close scrutiny of the law.

Rates of insurance have been increased in such amazing percentages in many localities among which our own must be classed, that the insurance business is fast assuming an attitude which may subject it to the serious charge of, by combination, placing a prohibitive price on a necessity.

Indeed, if an investigation is not already begun, it is seriously contemplated under the anti-trust law, which prohibits combinations in restraint of trade.

Fire insurance rates are advanced by nearly all companies doing business in the state with that uniformity which suggests at least a suspicion of concerted action.

Having established, years ago, the legality of their contracts insuring against loss, the big insurance companies now find themselves face to face with the restriction that the law has very wisely surrounded those who deal in legitimate trade products.

Locally, there has been much complaint at the upward leaps and bounds of insurance rates and many business men feel that the cost has nearly reached the limit. They find themselves rapidly approaching the time when a necessity will be denied them because of the prohibitive price placed upon that necessity.

The great fire loss suffered here on the night of December 31st, 1911, is the cause assigned by many unthinking people as the cause of the tremendous boost in the cost of insurance. Men who carry a large amount of insurance have gone further for the cause and have seen in the uniformity of action by the several companies and a rough comparison of premiums receipts and fire losses, a cause which is far behind that loss.

Then, too, from all sections of the state the same cry of distress goes up from those who must insure.

It must not be supposed that the rate is uniform in all places. Local conditions do effect the rate and local conditions may have some place in the calculation which fixes the rate in this city, but not to any great extent. And if such conditions do exist here, it is a present condition which can and should be remedied. It is not because of a fire loss sustained more than a year ago.

Insurance premiums do not find a basis in past occurrences except as occurrences point the existence of bad conditions heretofore unknown. Then, if the same conditions continue the insurance rates will advance and if conditions are bettered they will remain as they were or be reduced.

Business men and property owners of Washington are really feeling the pinch of advanced rates of insurance contracts, and if by bettering local conditions, the removal of "fire traps" or getting better facilities for fighting fire will in any degree furnish relief, even to checking the upward march of rates, our official family should rouse itself to affirmative action.

While the cost of fire fighting apparatus may seem large it is nothing to be compared with the grand aggregate of the advance on insurance rates which the people pay.

While the nation and the state may be compelled to investigate the cause of the advance on the larger basis, it behooves each community to put its own house in order so that the blame may not properly rest with the particular communities.

The first move to make is to close the wide open door of municipal neglect and carelessness, and escape in that direction then is impossible when the more general, direct attack for relief is made.

Poetry For Today

SEEING THINGS.

Can't you see, can't you see—
(It's so obvious to me)
What this futurist meant,
What that cubist's intent?
Those welch rabbits they drew
Are confusing to you?
Then look sharp. Look! see there!

Can't you see, can't you see—
(It's apparent to me)
The small surplus for giving
Over high cost of living?
Unspent dollars, I say,
Over'n above what we pay
For the day's daily bread
And our board and our bed?

Can't you see, can't you see—
('Tis as daylight to me)
The minute and negligible,
German army dirgible
As it hovers and soars
Over Englishman's snores;
As it threatens their shores
Spying shipyards and stores?

Can't you see, can't you see—
(Not the least mystery)
All the pockets that lie
In plain view of the eye
In the feminine skirt?
If you'd train and convert
Your dim senses to see,
How apparent they'd be!

A GLIMPSE BACK THROUGH YEARS

New Vocation for Cats—A friend informs us that Dr. Cleveland has discovered a process whereby kitty, in addition to her rat catching propensities may be made useful as well as ornamental addition to the household. The Dr.'s mother, during the winter had procured a lot of eggs, and in order to prevent them freezing, placed them in a box under the bed and covered them with a blanket. An ancient family cat made her bed on the eggs and by patient and constant resting thereon actually succeeded in hatching 2 chickens. What a glorious opportunity for some enterprising individual to make a fortune. We are informed the good doctor positively declines getting this new hatching process patented but intends giving it to the world.

Who wants to be booted?—A. Hamilton's is the place to get "booted" in the most approved manner and on the most reasonable terms. See his big advertisement in another column.

The Great McKean Buchanan Dramatic Troup, whose "star" engagement Bro. Gould, of Register fame, announced "our citizens would have the pleasure of witnessing," a week or two since, has failed to make its appearance, as yet. Probably the announcement was only one of the funny editor's little jokes on his readers.

INTERESTING BITS OF NEWS

More than 90 per cent of the delinquent girls released from the State Industrial School during the past two and one half years have made good wives and useful members of their communities," a member of the Board of Visitors stated the other day.

Girls are now being paroled to the rural communities, to the farms, and away from the cities and congested centers with their temptations. She declares that the girls make better wives than the factory product which have never known the shame and disgrace of a correctional institution.

The result of two great egg laying contests between 665 white Plymouth Rocks collected from different parts of the country and held at the Missouri Experimental Station, and 490 S. C. Rhode Island Reds collected at the Connecticut Experiment Station, resulted in the "Reds" making the best record. The 665 White Rocks laid an average of 134 eggs per hen per year and the champions 281 eggs during this time. The Rhode Island Reds laid an average of 153 eggs per year and the champions in this contest laid 254 eggs.

"Every Woman" is the name of a new paper which will appear the first time this morning. It is devoted to the interests of women and if it mentions men at all it will be some woman's husband or in some minor capacity. The editors and contributors are women, and its whole tone will be feminine. The paper is put out by the Scioto Publishing Company which is a new corporation, recently organized with a capital stock of $10,000.

Bob Himes, 18, six feet in stature, considered that he played a "great joke" on Probate Judge Baggott, of Dayton, several weeks ago, when he swore to being 21 years of age and asked for a marriage license to wed Veda Drake, 20, of that city. After obtaining the license Himes could not refrain from telling his friends of the "great joke." The news reached the ears of the judge and Himes was arrested today to await hearing on a charge of perjury. It is understood that Himes will bring suit for annulment of his marriage to relieve himself of the perjury charge.

Greatest Value Ever Offered For Two Pennies

By John P. Fallon.

The power of two pennies is truly wonderful when one considers what they will buy.

They will buy an evening's entertainment. They will buy pages of cleverly written incidents, happenings throughout the world. They will buy complete stories of adventures in the daily lives of men and women. They will buy comics and ludicrous features that "bring happiness to declining years and erase the finger-marks of time from wrinkled brows."

They will buy the latest news of theatredom, the successes of the operatic stage, the baseball and gridiron feats of skill and strength, the review of the latest books and music.

Do you know of a greater value for two pennies than your daily newspaper?

The pennies you invest in THE HERALD will pay dividends a hundred fold if you will read its advertisements closely and constantly every night and take advantage of the money-saving opportunities they afford.

Short Ballot Lost.

The Cleveland delegation representing Mayor Baker went home angry and determined to start next week a real fight for the complete short ballot program. The resolution which Senator Bernstein of Cleveland induced the senate to adopt under suspension of the rules Thursday as a rebuke to the house elections committee, which has smothered the similar Young resolution for two months, had no sooner reached the house than it was tabled by a vote of 59 to 37. That is the end of the Bernstein resolution.

Senator Weygant of Portage has introduced a resolution asking for the appointment of a joint commission of six members by the legislature to inquire into the advisability of leasing, selling or otherwise disposing of the state's canals.

All efforts on the part of coal operators to prevent the Green screen bill from receiving favorable action in the senate labor committee were futile. The bill was reported for passage without vital amendments.

Colonel Roosevelt was strongly supported by Republican members when the constitutional amendment resolution for the recall of judicial decisions was voted into the waste basket. The resolution, which had been offered some weeks ago by Representative Nye, Progressive, of Toledo, was lost by 64 to 31. Nineteen Republicans, three Progressives and nine Democrats supported it.

District Attorney McPherson to Begin an Investigation.

Cincinnati, O., March 8.—The pardon from former President Taft releasing Thomas Ewing Steele, the former Columbus attorney, from the custody of the federal courts here last Monday, has not yet been received by District Attorney McPherson. This became known when the district attorney announced that he will begin an investigation to learn what has become of the document. Steele was released Monday after McPherson had been notified by Attorney General Wickersham that the pardon had been signed.

Sister of Italian Countess Tries In Vain to See Cardinal Farley.

New York, March 8.—Mrs. Caroline Welch Clinton, a sister of the Countess De Felice of Abruzzi, Italy, and who was recently declared insane in Chicago and then legally pronounced sane by a county judge, was taken into custody in St. Patrick's cathedral when she tried to ascend the altar. She has been trying for the last few days to get into Cardinal Farley's residence. She was taken to the psychopathic ward of Bellevue hospital. Mrs. Clinton has written as a pastime for many magazines. She is said to have lost $200,000 lately through ill-advised speculation, but is still said to have large means.

PARODY ON TOMB OF JONES.

Former Naval Officer Writes Poetry, Doubt About Honored Bones.

Washington.—Park Benjamin, a patent attorney of New York city and a former naval officer, has contributed to the navy department a parody of the verse on Shakespeare's tomb, which he suggests might be placed on the crypt at Annapolis, Md., in which the bones of John Paul Jones were recently placed, following their discovery in Paris by General Horace Porter. The proposed epitaph is as follows:

Good friend, for Porter's sake, forbear To doubt the dust inclosed here. Blest be the man that got these bones And cursed be he that says "Tain't Jones."

BARS DONKEY FROM PARADE

Inaugural Committee Also Excludes Hounds From Pageant.

Washington.—The Wilson inaugural committee adopted a resolution excluding donkeys from the inaugural parade. This action was taken after information had come to the committee that a Democratic club of Columbus, O., was planning to have a donkey in the parade.

It was also decided to exclude a pack of Virginia foxhounds which some Virginia hunters and cross country riders had resolved to bring in the pageant.

The inaugural committee takes the view that an inaugural ceremony should be conducted in a dignified way and that donkeys and dogs have no place in it.

OUTPOINTS BRITTON

McFarland's Wonderful Boxing Skill Tells in Ten-Round Bout.

New York, March 8.—Wonderful boxing skill displayed by Packey McFarland in Madison Square Garden, convinced 10,000 spectators that he was the master in a clever 10-round lightweight contest with Jack Britton. McFarland was the class, as ring followers say, and that tells the story briefly. Although Britton displayed unusual skill, McFarland outboxed him in eight rounds. Packey had an advantage of more than four pounds and he never tried harder to stop an opponent, but there was no knockout, for the reason that Britton's shiftiness and ability to stand up under fire proved too great an obstacle. McFarland had Britton staggering and reeling at times, but the latter's stamina enabled him to keep on his feet.

Will Hear Some Good Speeches On The Subject

Ohio Woman's Suffrage Association Meets at Cleveland Next Week.

Cleveland, O., March 8.—The Ohio Woman's Suffrage association will meet in the Hotel Statler here March 11 and 12. Many prominent speakers will address the meeting, notably Hon. Newton D. Baker, mayor of this city; Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president International Woman Suffrage Alliance; Miss Elizabeth J. Hauser, Girard; Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, Warren; and Mrs. Charles S. Brooks, Cleveland. On the evening of March 12 there is to be a "dollar dinner," at which ushers in costume will represent countries in which women have been enfranchised.

Half Hundred Perish In the Disaster

and cries of pain mingled with the death rattle of the dying sailors and stevedores. Blood was everywhere. From ships and launches nearby watchers saw dismembered bodies flung across and tumbled about the Atlantic's decks.

Lost Life For His Gallantry.

Captain Vandyke gave his life for his gallantry. His body, with one arm severed, was among those recovered by the parties of rescuers.

How the fire started in the coal bunkers of the Alum Chine is so far unsolved. Some have ascribed it to spontaneous combustion, while one of the rescued declares he saw a fellow stevedore stick a bale hook into a box of dynamite.

The chief losers are the owners of the Alum Chine, which will probably be $370,000. The Maryland Steel company evolves the next greatest loss.

Half a mile from the scene of the disaster is the quarantine ship. There are about 12 patients there, and not one of these escaped injury. The hospital was battered and scarcely a pane of glass left in the building. Mrs. Richardson, wife of the quarantine physician, was severely injured by the debris, and her daughter was also hurt. All along the shore are evidences of the terrific force of the explosion, the damage being enormous.

About a quarter of a mile from the scene of the explosion lay the United States collier Jason, recently completed and ready for her trial trip. Immediately after the explosion she resembled a battered practice ship. Four men were killed outright and 27 injured by the iron hail. The sides of the vessel were battered and 1 places were huge holes as clean as if made by a shot.

At the morgue the scene was harrowing. The police boat which hurried out to look for bodies and bring in the dead and injured made several trips. Many of the bodies can not be identified. They were brought in sections. Features of others were unrecognizable, having been shot away.

The exact loss of life will not be ascertained for several days. About 30 are missing and the bodies not identified are awaiting claimants. From all along the shore on either side of the river reports continue to come in of persons injured by the shock and damage done property.

IMPORTANT MINERAL REGION LOCATED ALONG OHIO RIVER

A recent geological treatise issued by the government describes an area lying in the three states of Kentucky, Ohio and West Virginia. The area is in the "Hanging Rock" region of the Ohio River Valley, a region of great importance from its coal and iron industries and not many decades ago the center of several important charcoal-iron furnaces. Though the charcoal-iron industry disappeared long ago it served a useful purpose in paving the way for the more modern steel and iron works in the city of Ashland, Ky., in the northern part of the area covered by the folio. The region is the center of thriving coal and clay industries, and within the last few years explorations for oil and gas have been vigorously prosecuted in some parts of it.

Catlettsburg, Ashland, and Louisa, Ky., and Kenova, W. Va., are all busy and flourishing cities within the area. The Ohio River traverses its northern part and the Big Sandy, an important tributary of the Ohio, flows near its eastern edge. These streams not only furnish easy and cheap transportation, but have facilitated the construction of some of the important trunk lines of railway which traverse the area.

The Kenova area contains much of scientific as well as of economic interest. The peculiar drainage, both within and to the east and west of the area, the high gravel deposits back of Ashland and along Ohio and Big Sandy rivers, and the peridotite dikes in the western part of the area, are striking geologic features that are described in detail in the folio, which will prove of interest to the scientist devoted to the study of pure geology.

Of interest to the practical mining and business man are the descriptions of the minerals of economic importance—coal, flint and plastic clay, oil and gas, shale, limestone, iron ore, building stone, glass sand and salt. The relations of the valuable economic beds and those of stratigraphic importance are given in a columnar-section sheet.

Workable coal and clay beds are fairly well scattered over approximately two-thirds of the area, and the structure in the remaining third is such that at least a portion of the valuable beds will be found below drainage level. The location of the outcropping edges of these coal and clay beds is shown on the structure and economic geology sheet in the folio.

The coal beds vary in character, but include most varieties of the bituminous class, generally the harder kinds. As a rule they are not suitable for manufacture into coke, but when washed some of them give fair satisfaction. All are excellent for generating steam and for domestic use, and all bear transportation and stocking well. Certain of the coal beds in the western and southern parts of the area include benches of cannel coal which contains more than 50 per cent of volatile matter and which is especially suitable for use in open grates and in the manufacture of gas. Much of the good coal in the area occurring above the drainage level and in proximity to the railroads has been removed, but there is still a considerable amount which, owing to its present inaccessible position, remains untouched.

The clays of the area are of both the plastic and nonplastic varieties, the latter being also known as flint clay. These clays are of considerable present importance and a variety of clay products are turned out annually, including common or building brick, fire brick, and pottery. Many of the clay and shale beds of the area could if necessary be used in the manufacture of paving brick, sewer pipes, etc., for which an inferior clay is suitable.

The position of the oil and gas bearing beds in the different parts of the area is shown on the columnar section sheet.

SURGEON MADE TISSUES GROW

Details of Experiments at Rockefeller Institute Interest French Scientists in Paris

TO AID IN HEALING WOUNDS

May Lead to Discovery of Means of Regenerating Nervous System by Surgical Operation—Foreign Physicians Put Discoveries in Practice.

Paris, France.—Physicians and medical students have been greatly interested in a lecture delivered by Dr. Alexis Carrel of the Rockefeller Institute at one of the principal Paris hospitals; and his theories on the possibility of developing animal tissue artificially have created much discussion in the scientific world.

Dr. Carrel said he had been able to keep alive the detached tissues of a cat, a dog, a guinea pig, and a human being on microscope slides for the purpose of study. These tissues, when covered with a natural plasma or liquid serum, developed to a remarkable extent. After remaining without alteration for a few hours, the cells had been seen to continue their natural growth and to spread out in all directions.

"It may be possible to develop nerve tissues in this way," said the doctor, "and if that be so, it will be possible to regenerate the nervous system by a surgical operation."

The doctor reminded his hearers that a part of one animal can be grafted into another with success, and that cases of abdominal aorta of a dog being replaced by a human thigh artery, and the principal vein of another animal being extracted and its functions perfectly taken up by a large vein which had been previously kept for some weeks in cold storage, had been successfully tried.

"But the most important feature of this branch of research is my application of it to the healing of wounds and fractures," continued the doctor. "Hitherto the study of the process of healing in living organisms has been impossible; but by my methods I am able to watch these processes going on in the injured tissue, which has been detached from the parent body. Although all these results have been attained at the Rockefeller Institute," concluded Dr. Carrel, "I am bound to confess that it was French and German scientists who were the first to put them into practice."

BETTER THAN SPANKING.

Spanking does not cure children of bedwetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W, Notre Dame, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child—the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

The $100,000,000 McLean Baby And His Little Negro Valet

Of course you have heard about "the $100,000,000 baby" and his little negro playmate, now his valet. Equally, of course, you have formed your opinion about this idea of the little heir's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. McLean of Washington. "I don't want my son to grow up a snob," was the way Mr. McLean explained why he provided a little negro child for his son's companion. This picture of the two children, one white and the heir to millions, and the other black and penniless, was taken on the exclusive boardwalk at Palm Beach, Fla., where the McLeans are spending the winter. From all accounts the tots became the best of chums. How will the plan work? As Sir Roger de Coverley remarked, "There's much to be said on both sides of the question."

ENTERPRISING LONDON CITIZENS GUARANTEE NEW CLUSTER LIGHTS

Town Much Smaller Than This City Assured of Metropolitan Street Lighting, Such as Suggested Here, But Deemed Too Expensive.

The enterprising business men and property owners of London, Madison county, have put their shoulders to the wheel and are pushing for cluster lights for the main street, and according to the Democrat, which has the following to say, the lights are assured:

When cluster lights on Main street were first talked of it did not seem possible to secure them. The finances of the corporation treasury is in a bad way, principally on account of the lower assessment under the Smith one per cent tax law and many tax payers seem to oppose the idea of issuing bonds for any purpose. On account of Main street being paved this spring, it was necessary to decide in the cluster lights and prepare for their installation before the paving commenced. This required immediate action on the part of those interested.

Vice-President Frank Kaufman and two other members of the Board of Trade spent an hour Wednesday afternoon soliciting among the business men on Main street and secured about $1000 toward paying for the installation. Only a few people were approached and the indications are that it will not be difficult to secure the needed amount.

It is proposed to install the light on Main street, between the court house and the railroad, also a square each way on High street. The cost will be about $110 for each cluster. Probably one reason that the business men of central Main street are taking hold of the matter with more vim, is that the proprietors of the Murray-Boyd Block and the Exchange bank will install the lights on their respective corners, whether any others are put in on Main street or not. Taking in consideration the cost of the improvement our citizens could not invest an equal amount of money in any other public enterprise which would advertise the town as well as the cluster lights. After the required amount is secured the parties contributing will select a committee to decide on the kind of lights to be used and on the price to be paid.

Let every good citizen push this matter at once and give no heed to the contemptable knocker, whose hammer is ever raised to knock progressive measures.

Change of Date

Dr. Wintermeyer of Covington, Ky., who was to have appeared here next Tuesday and lecture at the Y. M. C. A. on "The Bacteria of Diseases," has written that on account of another lecture previously arranged and overlooked, he will have to change to a later date. In place of his lecture on Tuesday a moving picture performance has been arranged for. On Tuesday, April 1st, Dr. Jenkins will deliver a lecture (illustrated) on Tuberculosis.

FOUR NEW MEMBERS ARE ADDED TO FIRM OF CRAIG BROTHERS

Messrs. Walter and Clarence Craig, John Durant and Ray Maynard Now Members of Washington's Oldest Mercantile Firm—Recognition of Faithful Services.

A business change of importance has just been announced in the firm of Craig Bros., by the addition of four new members to the firm. Messrs. Walter Craig, Clarence Craig, John Durant and Ray Maynard. The firm name will remain unchanged.

Messrs. Walter and Clarence Craig, sons of Mr. Thomas H. Craig, have been closely associated with the firm for many years, and have at all times taken a deep interest in the business. Mr. Durant has been in the employ of the firm for 20 years and Mr. Maynard for 15 years, and the recent admission to the firm is recognition of their faithful services and marked ability in successfully conducting their respective departments.

The firm of Craig Bros. was established by Messrs. Eli and Williams Craig, in 1874 and in 1883 Messrs. David and Thomas H. Craig were admitted into the firm. Several years ago Mr. Williams Craig retired from the business.

This, the oldest established firm in the city, has made a steady growth from a modest little store to one of metropolitan proportions.

The four new members are receiving congratulations from their great numbers of friends.

New York Judge Rebukes Jury

New York, March 7.—"You may go home, get a new taxicab, go out and kill somebody else," Judge Foster told Leonard Gerard, a taxicab driver acquitted of murder this afternoon. "The jury has given you permission to do so."

"Gentlemen," continued the court addressing the jury, "you seem to think that a drunken chauffeur can run recklessly with his machine through the streets and go unpunished. At least that is what you say by your verdict. But in this case your state of mind in order to reach that verdict can best be described as the peace of heaven that passeth all understanding."

Gerard was indicted for the murder of Mrs. Mary Dethridge, a cousin of District Attorney Whitman whom he ran down last April.

"Movies" at the "Y"

Beginning on Tuesday night, March 11th, the Educational committee of the Young Men's Christian Association inaugurate their new community extension feature of educational work in the form of moving pictures.

It was decided at a recent meeting to use this means of education in promoting a class of pictures that are strictly in accord with the high ideals of the association for character development. No picture will ever be shown that will not contribute some value to those who might witness them.

This move is not made for profit to the Association, but in order that all may have the opportunity to witness instructive moving picture performances and be helped.

On Tuesday night four reels of 1000 feet each will be shown. The subjects embrace the Manufacture of Paper in Maine, The Rescue and Care of Blind Babies, Across the Pacific and Life Customs of the Winnebago Indians. The performance will begin at 8:15.

SCOOP The Cub Reporter

FREE SPRAYING AND PRUNING DEMONSTRATIONS ARE OFFERED

Opportunity for Fayette Land-owners to Secure Experts to Demonstrate How to Care for Fruit Trees and Increase Fayette's Fruit Production.

"Farmers throughout Ohio should lose no time in preparing for their spring spraying and pruning," advises an expert of the horticultural department at the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University, in discussing practices which are now seasonable. "Spraying and pruning must be relied on to keep orchards of the state in a state of healthy growth and give to the people of the state a crop which shall compare well in value with that of other fruit-growing states. There is no reason why Ohio should not head the list of middle western states engaged in fruit production, but scientific methods must be used to attain this end."

The presence of the San Jose scale on Ohio trees has aroused no small interest in the methods advocated by the College of Agriculture. Spraying the trees with lime-sulphur mixture has been found very efficient in the elimination of the scale, but there are still many farmers who are not sufficiently acquainted with the proper method of preparing the mixtures and the manner in which the trees should be sprayed.

One of the strongest educational features presented to the people of the state has been the spraying and pruning demonstrations by experts connected with the extension work of the College of Agriculture. In scores of communities the value of the fruit crop has more than doubled in a single year as the result of the introduction of scientific methods, taught by these workers. Not only on the spraying of trees does the success of the orchard depend; there must be a substantial pruning of the trees in many sections of the state, cutting out growth that is detrimental to the production of the best grades of fruit, and thereby conserving the life of the tree itself.

The extension department is arranging schedules for a number of these special demonstrations throughout the southern section of the state and is receiving a large number of applications. There are still a few dates open, and communities desiring the services of the extension workers may secure one of the demonstrations by filing an application with Prof. A. B. Graham, superintendent of Agricultural Extension, College of Agriculture, Ohio State University, Columbus. These applications should be signed by five residents of the community.

Another World Record Beaten

New York, March 7.—One world's record went tumbling, one runner, Abel R. Kiviat of the Irish-American A. C., won both the 600 and 1,000 yard runs, and Hannes Kolemains, the speedy Finn, dropped out of the two-mile race at Madison Square Garden tonight, where the Amateur Athletic union held its annual indoor championships. The new world's record was made by Patrick J. McDonald, the New York policeman, who won Olympic honors last summer. McDonald put the 24-pound shot 39 feet 3 1/4 inches, nearly five inches more than his old world's record, made outdoors at Celtic park, 18 months ago.

Kiviat was the star of the evening. His feat of romping away with the two big events carried with it a new American record in the 1,000 yard run of 2:15 4-5, shortening his own record of two years ago by two-fifths of a second. An hour later he left at his heels "Ted" Meredith, the Olympic winner, by inches only, in the 600-yard event, with Halpin of Boston a close up third. The American indoor record was equaled in the 70-yard high hurdle by James I. Wendell of Wesleyan, and by Howard P. Drew, the negro sprinter from Springfield, Mass., in the 75-yard dash. A penalty of three yards for breaking in the final of the 300-yard run failed to faze Fred Burns of Boston who won and came within one-fifth of a second of the American record. Thirty-one athletes who trod the soil of Sweden in the Olympic games were entered in tonight's program. Most of them competed.

Freight Terminal Planned By B. & O.

Cincinnati, a huge freight-distributing center, says the Cincinnati Tribune.

Such is the plan of the great railroads whose lines enter the city.

With the Bleekman and White scheme for a great union depot and terminal, the Arnold plan for an interurban terminal and the Mayor's plan for a loop line, all under discussion, the B. & O. S. W.-C. H. & D. Railroad has stepped quietly into the field and for weeks past has had an agent buying great tracts of land along its trackage in Millcreek Valley.

The transactions represent a total purchase of nearly two miles of property along one of the great railroad arteries of Cincinnati. Few of the deeds to the property have been filed in the County Recorder's office. This fact among real estate operators created comment.

It is an undisputed contention among railroad traffic officials that what Cincinnati mostly needs are freight terminals. Every road entering Cincinnati shows a remarkable increase in its traffic. The car movement throughout Ohio has become a most serious problem.

What to do with the cars hourly arriving has been the most annoying problem to railway motive power operators.

The whole question has hinged upon one vital and important point. That is, that Cincinnati must have more room for its railroads. It has been demonstrated in other cities that it was a gilt-edged investment to wreck and tear down blocks upon blocks of buildings to give the railroads full sway.

That the railroad makes the city the Cincinnati Southern Railroad demonstrated.

The B. & O. S. W.-C. H. & D. Railroad is paying the way to make of Cincinnati a great freight distributing center and that is why it has authorized its agent to buy up all the available land along or near its railway in the Millcreek Valley.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has not been slow either to grasp the momentous need. Beyond the city limits great industries have arisen.

These occupy ground space that is so vast and employ such armies of workers that they have sprung up as cities unto themselves.

The B. & O. S. W.-C. H. & D. Railroad is moving up to them.

Uncle Sam Helps On Big Project

Spokane, Wash., March 8.—What is believed to be the first contract ever made between the United States of America and an irrigation district was filed in Kittitas county, west of Spokane, when the secretary of the Kittitas reclamation project recorded an agreement with the government to furnish storage water for the $5,000,000 high line canal. The document bears the signature of Walter L. Fisher, secretary of the Interior. Water for the high line canal will be furnished by the federal government from the storage reservoirs at the head of the Yakima river, delivery to be made in 1916, or in 1915, if necessary. Water for 70,000 acres in the district will cost $882,000, payable in three installments. The contract with the government was secured after many months of negotiations, participated in by Secretary Fisher, representing the government, and Thomas Haley, president, C. W. Johnson, secretary, and Carroll B. Graves, attorney, representing the irrigation district. The irrigation season will be open from April 20 to September 30.

HUMOR OF THE HOUR

Dead Ones.

Senator Beveridge, in the course of an eloquent after-dinner speech in Boston, said of child labor:

"When we consider the indifference with which so many of our great men look upon the child-labor evil, we can't help wondering if these men are so very great after all."

Senator Beveridge paused and smiled.

"An orator," he said, "was addressing an assemblage of people. He recounted the people's wrongs. Then he passionately cried:

"Where are America's great men? Why don't they take up the cudgel in our defense? In the face of manifold wrongs, why do they remain cold, immovable, silent?"

"Because they're all cast in bronze," shouted a cynic in the rear."

The Pedestrian in 1910.

Chug-chug! Br-r! br-r! Honk-honk! Gillingill-gillingill!

The pedestrian paused at the intersection of two busy cross streets.

He looked about. An automobile was rushing at him from one direction, a motor-cycle from another; an auto-truck was coming from behind, and a taxicab was speedily approaching.

Zip-zip! Zing-glug!

He looked up and saw directly above him a runaway airship in rapid descent.

There was but one chance. He was standing upon a manhole cover. Quickly seizing it, he lifted the lid and jumped into the hole just in time to be run over by a subway train.

A DIFFERENCE.

Beggar—I have an invalid wife and a daughter who has stomach trouble. City Man—You're lucky. My wife is strong enough to knock holes in me, and my daughter eats five pounds of canvasback duck every meal.

The Requirements of Social Position.

"I am ill," says the social leader, dismally.

"Too bad," commiserates his secretary. "Shall I summon a physician?"

"Summon one? Thunder! Send for twenty physicians. Telephone the photographer to send copies of my latest picture to the newspapers, prepare a typewritten statement denying that there is anything the matter with me and asserting that my indisposition will not have a serious effect on the market. Haven't you had enough experience to know what it means when a man of my position is ill?"

Poultry Management. In one of the annual reports of the Bureau of Animal Industry is a poultry article of unusual interest. "It is easy to figure oneself getting rich raising poultry," writes the author, G. Arthur Bell, assistant animal husbandman of the Bureau of Animal Industry, "that a great many people with but little knowledge and experience have embarked in the business on a large scale, only to meet with disastrous failure. They have neglected to recognize the fact that this industry, like any other, requires a thorough training and an aptitude for the occupation. That there is good money in poultry, however, when properly managed, is shown by the many successful poultrymen who are making a good living from the industry." It is all in the management.

Good Hay for Horses. Many farmers still have the notion that clover hay is not fit to feed work horses. It is one of the best of hays for horses. It contains good muscle and energy-producing materials. It is almost twice as rich as timothy, hence a less amount is needed. A good way to use clover with horses is to feed it half and half with timothy. Clover hay is a good bowel regulator, and is generally beneficial when fed with caution.

OHIO HAPPENINGS

Charges Kohler Faces.

Cleveland, O., March 8.—Amended charges, detailing allegations under which Chief Fred Kohler is to be tried by the civil service commission, were made public when Kohler was arraigned before the commission. The official document claims that on three occasions the chief "surreptitiously visited the home of Samuel D. Scheerer and stayed for hours with Mrs. Daisy Scheerer while her husband was absent." Scheerer recently obtained a divorce, naming Kohler in his petition.

Sullivan Investigates Strike.

Columbus, O., March 8.—In response to a call from Mayor Newton Wyckoff of Martins Ferry, Secretary D. H. Sullivan of the state board of arbitration went to that city to investigate a strike of more than 100 employees of the La Belle Box company. The board investigated a strike at the company's plant last summer. The present trouble has been on for some time.

Husband Found Dead; Wife Dying.

Cleveland, O., March 8.—Mystery surrounds what is believed to be an attempted murder and suicide tragedy enacted in the home of Albert Lansdorf. Hearing revolver shots, neighbors ran and found Lansdorf and his wife dying. It is supposed Lansdorf shot his wife and then turned the weapon on himself.

Dejected Wife Drinks Lye.

Xenia, O., March 8.—"My husband doesn't love me any more and I don't want to live," said Mrs. Sadie Morris, 50, in explanation of her act of drinking half a glassful of a strong solution of concentrated lye. She asserted that she would take carbolic acid if she recovered. Physicians say she will die.

New Bank at Napoleon.

Napoleon, O., March 8.—The Commercial State bank, capitalized at $50,000, was organized with ex-Congressman D. Meekison, president; A. E. Mearker, vice president; Mathias Rieser, cashier; George McKee, assistant cashier. Meekison has been at the head of banking institutions 27 years.

Fort Smith, Ark.—Within five hours G. W. Rainwater, prominent farmer of Grover township, Franklin county, was made a grandfather five times. Three daughters gave birth to sons and two daughters-in-law gave birth to girls.

TESTS FOR CHILD PSYCHIC.

Munsterberg to Ask Her to Read Book Under Pillow.

Boston.—Professor Hugo Munsterberg of Harvard university will make further tests with ten-year-old Beulah Miller, the child psychic of Warren, R. I.

He proposes to see if she can read from the pages of a schoolbook placed under a pillow on which she will lay her head. The professor declares that he believes Beulah can do it.

"A most unusual thing about Beulah is the fact that she appeared to be able to read words and figures by placing her hand upon a book or a paper," he said. "It is possible that some psychological solution may be worked out to account for the superstition that a child could learn a lesson by placing the schoolbook under the pillow at night."

TWO DEAD IN NEW POLAR TRAGEDY

Dr. Mawson's Australian Party Suffers Loss.

Sydney, N. S. W.—Again the British army is affected by the loss of a brilliant officer in the tragedy which overtook the party commanded by Dr. Douglas Mawson, an Australian explorer. Lieutenant B. E. S. Ninnis of the famous Royal Fusiliers regiment now lies dead amid the antarctic snows, although far from the spot where his comrade, Captain Lawrence Oates of the Inniskilling dragoons, perished while returning from the south pole with the late Captain Robert F. Scott.

Switzerland also has suffered a great loss by the death of Dr. Merz, a capable scientist as well as a leading sportsman. After winning the ski jumping championship in Switzerland in 1908 he offered his services to Dr. Mawson, believing that his great experience among ice and snow would be of service to the expedition and that his scientific knowledge also would aid its leader.

According to the reports of Dr. Mawson himself, the principal objects of the expedition were attained and specially important information was gathered in regard to the southern magnetic pole.

Unfortunately Dr. Mawson and six of his companions, after they had been picked up by the Aurora, undertook another expedition and were unable to join the ship which was compelled to leave them to spend another year in the cold southern regions.

Professor David, who was a member of Sir Ernest Shackleton's expedition, which reached within 111 miles of the south pole in 1900, received the following wireless dispatch from Adelle Land:

"Dr. Douglas Mawson and several of his men missed the Aurora, which had gone to fetch them under the command of Captain J. K. Davis. This happened owing to unfortunate circumstances."

"Lieutenant B. E. S. Ninnis of the city of London regiment of Royal Fusiliers and Dr. Merz, who was ski champion of Switzerland in 1908, who were members of the expedition, are both dead. All the others are well."

"Dr. Douglas Mawson and six other members of his party probably will winter on Adelle Land."

NEILL REAPPOINTED

President Wilson Names the Commissioner of Labor.

Washington, March 8.—The most important appointment that President Wilson has yet made as indicating a general policy by the new administration, came when he sent to the senate the name of Charles P. Neill for commissioner of labor. Mr. Neill describes himself as an independent in politics. He was appointed labor commissioner by President Roosevelt and reappointed by President Taft. President Wilson has thus filled this important post with a man who has served through two Republican administrations.

"A Screw Loose."

Pueblo, Colo.—Charles Stepp, a county employee, had some "screws loose"—in the literal sense of the word. Last summer Stepp fractured both bones in his right ankle. The nature of the break made it impossible to set the bones in the ordinary way. Two steel plates were inserted and screwed together. Stepp resumed his work. A few days ago he found that something was wrong. It was discovered that the screws had become loosened.

"WILSON FACE" IS LATEST MODEL

Looking Like Public Men the American Style.

SOME TYPES OF THE PAST.

Henry Grady, Henry Clay, Ben Tillman, Theodores Roosevelt, Lincoln and Many Others Had Hundreds of "Doubls"—Senator Cullom and Uncle Joe Cannon Two Examples.

Washington.—We Americans are great imitators—"copyists," the artistic would call us—in amusements, in dress, in philosophical speculation, in political thinking, in community living, and there is now about to appear "in our midst" the Woodrow Wilson face. There is nothing to be ashamed of in such a visage. It is a strong face, clean cut, with a fighting jaw, a generous but firm mouth, an intellectual forehead and well formed ears and big, keen gray eyes.

When Henry Grady attained his high place among the publicists of his time it seemed that every young man in Georgia tried to look as much like Grady as barbers and tailors could make them. They talked, as well as they could, as he talked; they told his stories, imitated his style of writing and adopted his peculiarities of gait and gesture. Then came Ben Tillman, who made the wool hat the test of statesmanship in South Carolina, and only a few years ago all the country over the cowboy type was the accepted type of the man who would die for his country.

At about the same period there was another model which was accepted as the true Phidian of the Democracy, and from the plains of Nebraska to the onion patches of Texas the long black alpaca coat in summer, the lamb's wool collar in winter, the reversible cuffs at all seasons became the last word in type and symbol of statesmanship and virtue.

The venerable Shelby M. Cullom of Illinois and Uncle Joseph Cannon have acquired not a little distinction in the public eye because it has been claimed that they "look exactly like Abraham Lincoln."

The portraits of many of the elder statesmen of this country represent them in dress and face as belonging to a very distinct type of the genus homo. There are a few survivors of that older period, and if Sulzer's clothes should be put on the marble effigy of Henry Clay, which stands in the little pagoda on the capitol grounds in Richmond, not even Job Hedges could pass by without lifting his hat and saying, "Good morning, governor."

Now that a new administration is about to begin and there is a new face at the door, it is really one of the most remarkable incidents of the day that there are so many men with the Woodrow Wilson face, so clever are the American people in the high dramatic art of dressing the part. It can be seen in almost any large assemblage of men, and there will be more of them as the days pass, at least until the loaves and fishes have all been distributed, and after that—well, it doesn't matter.

Silver Joint For Monkey.

San Francisco.—Dr. Francis Milton Clark of this city, who recently provided a dog with a practicable silver leg joint, has just fitted a pet monkey with a ball and socket shoulder joint of silver and diamonds.

The dog's joint also had gem bearings, and a complication arose when an attempt was made to steal the animal immediately after the operation.

G. W.'s Orders Still Good.

Washington.—President George Washington's building regulations for the capitol, including a provision that a party wall might be built partly on the adjoining lot, were upheld by the supreme court. The court ruled, however, that Washington had not intended that a bay window should be placed as a party wall.
